T. CROGER'S LIST, containing upwards of 1500 prices for Musical Instruments, &c., forwarded, post free, on receipt of address. T. C. begs to call attention to his new patent transposing Metallic Harmonicons. Persons studying music, either vocal or instrumental, will find these instruments of infinite service to them. The difficulty that has hitherto existed in understanding the most important parts of the rudiments of music, is by them fully explained, because they give ocular demonstration on all the following portions of the science:—The different terms used in naming the notes; the difference between the diatonic and chromatic scales; the difference between simple and compound intervals; the difference between sharp and flat keys; the difference between major and minor keys; the art of transposition, showing how and when sharp notes become flat or natural, and vice versa, or in other words, how it is that a note may be (according to circumstances), flat, natural, or sharp; and also the nature of synonymous keys. Price lists with testimonials, post free. 234, High Holborn, London (W.C.)

On a card, for schools, &c. 2d. each, 1s. 8d. per doz.

THE JUVENILE SONGSTER, consisting of Thirty-three cheerful and moral Songs, set to appropriate Music, for One, Two, or Three Voices, and designed for Children, Schools, and Private Families, by LOWEL MASON. Price 2s.

ADDRESS.

"The object of this little work is to furnish a collection of songs adapted to the circumstances and capacities of children. Both music and words will be found to be very simple, and of such a character as experience has proved interesting to those for whom they are designed.

"A few of the melodies have been selected from German works, mostly from those of Nægeli, who has been styled the apostle of musical education, and a few are popular tunes.

"Great care has been taken to preserve purity of sentiment in the poetry, some of which has been imitated from the German, and written expressly for the work. Every piece is believed to be of such a character, as is at once calculated to please the mind, and to improve the heart.

"The arrangement of the music is such, that while it answers for the Pianoforte, it may in most cases be sung in one, two, or three equal parts, the bass part being sung an octave higher than written. To all the children in the kingdom, this little work, designed at once for their amusement and their instruction, is dedicated, by their sincere friend, LOWEL MASON."

J. Alfred Novello, London and New York.
